While leaving home and friends behind was a great challenge, in the short time that I have been at Warwick, I have truly found a new home and an exciting new adventure. Meeting new friends and teachers from all over the country and the world has been amazing and my course is so interesting and engaging.

I've joined the squash club, the drama society, the university newspaper 'The Boar' and Warwick Transformations, an initiative in which we visit local secondary schools and colleges to teach English lessons, to encourage more young people to apply to university. I don't really know what the future holds for me but every day brings new opportunities so I'm going to jump for as many as possible! I really do love what I am doing now, so I look back at my time at Carmel College with immense gratitude and hope that students to come will take fond memories with them when they move on, just as I have.
