“When I came to Carmel it was a fresh start and it's fair to say I found my place quickly. I made lots of new friends, progressed and achieved academically. I wouldn't have changed a thing.”

Modern Languages and Cultures

I'm really enjoying my first few weeks at Durham University. My courses are really interesting so far and I'm getting a variety of perspectives on subject matters I never imagined I could study (including sociolinguistics in Latin America and Catholic Martyrdom in Early Spain). Since arriving, I've joined many clubs including Basketball Club, the Cocktail Society at my college, Latin American Society, LGBTQ+ Society and Hummus Society (of which I am now the Secretary). I'm just taking the future as it comes for now, but I will be starting my big essays and housing decisions this term and later in the year I'll be considering my options for the year abroad.
