

Extended Project Qualification

An additional qualification you can take alongside your other subjects

Gives you the opportunity to research a subject area to undergraduate level standard

Develop higher level thinking skills, valued by universities and employers

Gain extra UCAS points and enhance your university application

This course is offered to students in Spring of the first year. Anyone can apply and there are a series of tasks and activities to complete as part of the application process.

YOU WILL:

- Choose an area of research to study that you have a passion for
- Plan, research and carry out your project and then prepare a presentation to share the outcomes
- Complete a logbook to document the process and your decisions.

The project can take a variety of forms such as a traditional dissertation.

ASSESSMENTS

You will need to:

- Provide a product based on your research
- Complete a logbook recording your experience
- Deliver a presentation

SUPPORTING YOU

You will be supported by your supervisor who will help to develop your research skills and provide advice & guidance throughout the process.

“ My Experience

“This qualification has enhanced my organisational abilities, introduced me to new academic areas and has developed my communication skills.

Whilst this is predominantly an independent qualification, I have been given so much support from my EPQ tutor and never felt lost or confused during the process.”
