There are many paths to where you want to go, and finding them may require a slight change in perspective; failure is a part of growth, try to keep your determination through those times; constant introspection is key to success.

"My time at Lancaster university studying law so far this term has been a whirlwind; it's been challenging, but also fun and interesting. I've learnt many new writing techniques and learnt how to do in-depth reading and researching of topics.

I have joined many societies including the Law Society, netball, debating and mooting. I have also joined a society known as UOTC which is the University Officer Training Corps as an aspiring officer of the future. It's almost like cadets with plenty of socials."
