I wouldn't have achieved what I have today without Carmel. My tutors were so supportive and always pushed me to realise my potential.

"I received a First Class degree in BSc Psychology and was presented with a Gold Lancaster Award for achievements in Employability, Campus Activities and Work Experience.

I knew that I wanted to continue my studies in Psychology and aim for a career in research, therefore in my third year, I applied for a fully-funded 4-year studentship with the North West Social Science Doctoral Training Partnership (NWSSDTP).

I'm delighted to say that I won this studentship! As a result, I'm currently studying for a Master's Degree in Psychological Research Methods at Lancaster and will complete my PhD here.

I'll be conducting research in the Neuroscience of Speech and Action lab with a focus on cognitive neuroscience. My PhD project will investigate how multisensory integration changes with age and the effects that these changes have on our balancing abilities."
