I had a fantastic time during my degree. Studying Film Production provided me with a wide range of skills in filmmaking and film theory, too. During my undergrad, I worked on a film that won a Royal Television Society award and featured in a case study from ALBERT for our commitments to Net-zero filmmaking. University really pushed me, not just to learn and build my skills, but understand who I was as a filmmaking and how I want to use my skills to better the industry.

I am currently studying for an MA in Screenwriting at the University of the Arts London. Moving to London at 20 was my biggest challenge yet but one I am loving every minute of.
